

Fort Worth Outpatient Clinic

Fort Worth Outpatient Clinic (FWOPC) makes medical resources more accessible to veterans in the western primary service area of VA North Texas Health Care System.

Open since 1992, FWOPC offers general and specialty outpatient care in medicine, surgery, and mental health. Patients who require hospitalization or more sophisticated outpatient care are referred to Dallas VA Medical Center.

FWOPC improves access to outpatient services, reducing the need for more expensive and stressful emergency procedures. A 41,640 net square-foot facility, FWOPC handled 141,064 outpatient visits in FY 05. Services include primary care, ambulatory surgery, dental, nutrition, physical therapy, audiology, eye services, ear, nose and throat, mental health, podiatry, orthopedics and urology. Laboratory, radiology, pharmacy and social work services are also available. In addition, FWOPC hosts representatives from Disabled American Veterans, Military Order of the Purple Heart, Texas Veterans Commission, and Veterans Benefits Administration.

A staff of approximately 110 includes physicians, nurses, pharmacists, technicians, and administrative support along with over 25 active volunteers and work study students.

FWOPC has outgrown its present location, and a new 218,000 square foot clinic is scheduled to open in 2009. This will be the largest leased clinic within VA.
